

Tasha works as the Executive Vice President, People Services for Long View Systems, where she's been helping their over 1200 employees since 2002. As their first HR professional, she has had the opportunity to see them through tremendous growth into their offices across North America.

She has spent much of her free time advocating for young breast cancer patients through her volunteer work for Rethink Breast Cancer. Currently, she is the Co-Chair of a national Advisory Board for Metastatic Breast Cancer with Rethink Breast Cancer. This board is working to improve the care and access to treatment for young women with metastatic breast cancer, educate the public on what MBC is and build a group of allies worldwide to bring their voices together to be heard and share the needs of this group.

In November 2012, Tasha was named one of Avenue Magazine's Top 40 under 40 and in January of 2011, she was named by the Calgary Herald as one of their 20 people to watch out for. She is also featured in the Canadian Screen award winning documentary "About Her", as one of nine young women sharing their unique cancer journey.

She has recently joined the Board of Directors for the Epilepsy Association of Calgary, as her son has been dealing with untreatable epilepsy for over 7 years. Her goal is to help build programs to support parents and teenagers who are going through the Epilepsy journey and to bring awareness to the community about what Epilepsy is and how we can build a better world for those struggling with it.

When she's not busy working or trying to bring change to improve the lives of patients and caregivers, Tasha spends time with her husband, kids & family, who if you were to ask her, are the real reasons she does all she does.
